Spring Comes Early to the Liberty

We have certainly had more than our fair share of winter this year, with a seemingly unending cycle of snow, ice, and gray skies. While it's good for the crops, it's been hard on us humans, so while the official start of spring won't be here until late March, the TVAC Productions team decided to lighten our mood by moving our annual spring variety show up a few weeks.

With directors Tracy Barron and Jae Nichols at the helm, this year's show, A Spectacle of Miscellany, is filled with lighthearted song & dance numbers, intermixed with a few comedy acts, performed by Liberty Theater stage veterans, young and old. It's a show for all ages, one that will leave us feeling like it's all blue skies ahead!

Performances: 7PM Friday & Saturday, March 3 & 4, and 3PM Sunday, March 5

Tickets: $12-$15 per person, can be ordered online at libertytheater.org or at the box office.

Tickets Selling Fast for April 7 Concert

We knew when we booked Dave Stamey we were getting one of the most popular cowboy musicians around, but even so, it is a little surprising how much interest his April 7 show has already generated. At the time this newsletter went to press, 40% of the tickets for the evening were sold. Cowboys and Indians Magazine has called Stamey "the Charley Russell of Western Music," and people far and wide swear his is one of the best live shows around. If you are at all interested in attending, you will want to get your tickets well ahead of time.

Special thanks to The Weinhard Hotel sponsoring the concert by hosting Stamey while he is in town!

Performance: 7PM Friday, April 7

Tickets: $20 per person, now available online at libertytheater.org and at the box office.
